Exploring the Heart of Conservation: TRUST (Trust, Respect, Unique, Sustainability, Transferability)

Private Lands Partners Day returns to its original location in celebration of the 15th anniversary of the original meeting in 2008. The 1.5 million-acre Blackfoot watershed forms the southern end of the Crown of the Continent, one of the most ecologically intact ecosystems left on earth. Every species that was present when Meriwether Lewis made his return trip east along the Blackfoot River in 1806 still resides here today. Beginning at the Continental Divide east of Lincoln, the Blackfoot River runs 132 miles west to its confluence with the Clark Fork River just east of Missoula. A history of glaciation left the Blackfoot watershed with a mosaic of habitat types that support a wide variety of fish and wildlife species: bull and Westslope cutthroat trout, grizzly bears, gray wolves, Canada lynx, wolverines, and trumpeter swans, to name a few.

The story of collaboration in the Blackfoot watershed begins in the early 1970s, when landowners along the Blackfoot River recognized the need to build partnerships with public agencies in order to address natural resource threats facing the watershed. By focusing their early efforts where they agreed, these partners realized they could accomplish much more by working together. The Blackfoot Challenge celebrates its 30th anniversary of incorporation in 2023 and continues to carry this original vision of inclusive collaboration forward today.

Sponsorship and Support

The 2023 Private Lands Partners Day (PLPD) is a two-day event, which will bring together private landowner leaders and partners from around Montana and across the country to share their personal experiences with cooperative efforts to conserve rural working landscapes along with habitat for fish and wildlife. This meeting typically draws 200-250 people, approximately half landowners and half Conservation professionals, typically with about half from the hosting state and half from elsewhere in the country. There are numerous levels of support available and we invite you to join us as a sponsor.

By becoming a sponsor, you will have the opportunity reach landowners, businesses and agency partners from around the region as well as nationally. You will also have the opportunity to set up a booth and talk with conference attendees one-on-one.
